

A level Chemistry Summer Task

Research and write a report on a current scientific development (preferably in Chemistry) use a variety of sources (NOT just one googled web page!) The report should be at least two pages long and explain what the development is as well as the science behind it.

Make sure you reference your source material. Bring the report to the first Chemistry lesson.

Possible sources include The New scientist magazine and web site, Royal society of chemistry web site,